TRUFFLE HUNTING TOURS - Istra Slovenia-

WHERE WE ARE

Nestled in the heart of Europe is a land of rolling hills, sun dappled forests and unspoiled Mediterranean coastlines - a land so breathtaking that the Romans called it Terra Magica. Part of this land is also a small Istrian village named Padna.

SLOVENIAN ISTRA

A hidden gem in the southeastern part of Slovenia is a part of peninsula along the Adriatic sea, which runs through the Slovenian and Croatian territories. Our delicious truffles are gathered in the Slovenian part of Istra, it is one of five regions in our country that have an extremely rich tradition and historical background.

In the Roman times it was known as "Terra magica" (magical land), expression that compliments people from the region, who revived the traditional, natural and biodynamic ways of making wine. Later the land was controlled by several noble dynasties and at the end taken over by the Patriarchs of Aquileia. Traces of history are visible at every step you take. Both Italian and Slovene are official languages in Istria.

The region is worth a visit even without the truffles. 43 kilometres long coastline is filled with bays, peninsulas and natural reserves where waves rush towards the shoreline and generate amazing cliffs. Two rivers, Dragonja and Rižana, give the landscape a distinctive relief dynamics.

You can also enjoy Venetian Gothic architecture and while you're already here, visiting the spectacular Mediterranean town of Piran is a must!
